THREE CANDIDATES WILL BE IN RACE

Ramey Announcement Expected to Cause Realignment of Voters.

Times-Dispatch Bureau,
5 Hollingsworth Street,
(Phone 1485).
Petersburg, Va., February 24.
The announcement by City Treasurer W. E. Ramey, that he will be a candidate for re-election as treasurer should the people approve the amendment to be submitted to their vote, allowing treasurers to succeed themselves, has aroused a great deal of interest in the community, and should things turn out as Mr. Ramey expects, the situation may cause some realignment among the voters. It was on the supposition that treasurers could not succeed themselves that two prominent members of the Council, C. L. Barksdale and J. G. Stratton, months ago announced their candidacy for the city treasurer's office, and began their canvass and received pledges of support from many voters. Both of these candidates, it is understood, will remain in the field, and both will continue their campaign. The election does not take place until next year.

Death in Chesterfield.
Mrs. Maria Eubank, wife of J. T. Eubank, died last night at her home in Chesterfield county, after an illness of some duration. She was fifty-six years old and is survived by her husband and seven children: Mrs. J. T. Martin, Mrs. R. K. Burnett, Misses Victoria and Mollie, and T. L. C. T. and S. J. Eubank; also by three sisters. The funeral will be from Woodlawn Baptist Church, in Chesterfield, and the burial will be in Blandford Cemetery.

Resignation of a Pastor.
The Rev. W. W. Edwards has resigned pastoral charge of Shiloh Baptist Church, in Prince George county, to take up similar work in Black Creek District, Southampton county. The neighborhood of where he was born and passed his early manhood. He will begin his work there tomorrow.

The Rev. G. B. Howard, for some years past the pastor of Gillfield Baptist Church (colored), in this city, who recently resigned, will preach his closing sermon to his congregation tomorrow night. The Rev. Howard, during his years of ministry in this city, won the respect of all classes. He has accepted a call to Pittsburg, Pa.

Pastoral Calls.
The congregation of the First Baptist Church will tomorrow receive the report of its pulpits committee appointed to recommend a pastor. This committee, consisting of over fifty members of the church, will unanimously recommend that a call be extended to the Rev. L. M. Roper, D. D., of Spartanburg, S. C., and the congregation will doubtless approve the recommendation and unanimously vote to call Dr. Roper.

It is expected that the pulpits committee of the Second Presbyterian Church may receive an answer from the Rev. J. A. McClure, of Henderson, N. C., to the call recently extended him, in time to make announcement of his decision to the congregation tomorrow.

The town of Victoria, on the Virginia Railway, in Lunenburg county, is growing rapidly, and its people are progressive. A large new public school building is nearing completion, and granite sidewalks, electric lights, telephone and sewerage systems are in contemplation by the Town Council. A Retail Merchants' Association has been organized, with the following officers: President, C. F. Nelson; Vice-President, D. H. Lewis; Secretary and Treasurer, H. T. Faison. The association has fifty members. It is expected that a petition will shortly be presented to Judge Barksdale, asking for a special election to take the sense of the people on the question of removing the county courthouse to Victoria.

General News in Brief.
The city is making extensive repairs to the Bishop Bridge over the Appomattox. This bridge is a wooden structure and costs the city between $2,000 and $2,500 annually to keep in repair. A new steel and concrete bridge was provided for in the proposed issue of bonds, which was defeated by the Board of Aldermen. The river is quite high in consequence of the recent rains. The flood water, however, all passes off through the diversion channel, and the harbor does not feel the effect of the freshets.

Brook Curry, a noted trainer of fast horses, of Lexington, Ky., is to take charge of a stable of trotters at the Petersburg Fair Grounds for the season.

TEETH ARE FORGED INTO RESOLUTION

Democratic Leaders
Frightened by Threatened Coalition.

How and Why the Money Trust Is to Be Investigated

Original resolution introduced by Representative Lindbergh, Republican progressive.

Chairman Henry secured agreement in Rules Committee for full, thorough investigation.

Caucus called by Democratic leaders "steam-rollered" Henry resolution, proposing instead investigation of "financial conditions."

Coalition of Henry supporters, with insurgent Republicans, planned to insure efficient probe.

Frightened at prospective coalition, Democratic leaders placed Henry supporters by "putting teeth" in the caucus resolution.

Compromise resolution passed by House with eight dissenting votes.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, February 24.—Eight lonesome, stalwart old regular Republicans, headed by "Uncle Joe" Cannon, stood up in the House to-night, the only ones to be counted as "dead set" against any form of investigation of the money trust.

Two hundred and seventy Democrats and Republicans joined in support of a compromise resolution directing the Banking and Currency Committee to probe such matters touched upon in House resolution 406—the original money trust resolution which was "steam-rollered" in the Democratic caucus—as may come within its jurisdiction.

To complete the money trust investigation resolutions were introduced to-night by Representative Clayton (Democrat, Alabama), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and chairman Adamson (Democrat, Georgia), of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, authorizing their respective committees to investigate such charges against the money trust as come within their jurisdiction.

The compromise resolution finally adopted was forced upon the Democratic leaders by a threatened coalition of progressive Democrats with insurgent Republicans. It halted temporarily the Democratic insurgent movement. It was denounced on the floor in to-day's field day of oratory by the Republican insurgents as constituting a sweeping investigation, but they finally supported it as "the best they could get," after the Democrats had united in supporting a motion to shut off all opportunity for amendment.

The Republican insurgents fought throughout the two hours of debate for a chance to amend the resolution. Steam Roller Rolls Freely. But the united Democracy prevailed, the steam roller rolled freely and easily, and by a vote of 175 to 105 squashed opposition. Three Democrats—D. Fenderfer, of Pennsylvania; Gray, of Indiana, and Thayer, of Massachusetts—voted against the gag rule. All of the Republicans, except "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Currier, of New Hampshire; McGarry, of Pennsylvania; Sherman of Michigan, Taylor, of Ohio, and Young, of Michigan, opposed it.

On the final passage of the bill, the eight Republicans who voted against the resolution were: Cannon, Austin, Tennessee; Dabell, Pennsylvania; Gillette, Massachusetts; Higgins, Henry and Tilson, Connecticut; and Thistlewood, Illinois.

Led by Representatives Norris and Lenroot, the Republican insurgents denounced the resolution roundly, contending that it did not authorize a full and complete investigation. "This investigation will be full, fair and effective," declared Mr. Jujo, of the Banking Committee. "If we find that we have not power enough under this resolution, we will come back and ask the House for more. But this will not be an investigation for the yellow press, nor for one clique of financiers against another."

In the course of the debate the Democrats promised that the pending resolution would be supplemented by others authorizing other standing committees to take up different phases of the money trust probe.

"We know, and you know and the country knows," shouted Representative Campbell (Republican, Kansas) to the Democrats, "that you have resolved not to investigate the money trust, and that there will be no real investigation. You are now dodging the real investigation which you first proposed."

WANT UNIFORM LAW

Standard Weights and Measures Urged for All States.

John W. Richardson, ex-officio State Superintendent of Weights and Measures, has returned from a conference of the National Association of State Superintendents of Weights and Measures, held at Washington, with some interesting data on proposed legislation to unify the weights and measures of every State. In addition to drawing up a bill to be submitted to Congress for making all national weights and measures standard, the conference considered a bill to regulate the weights and measures in Virginia proposed by Mr. Richardson.

This bill provides for a State Superintendent of Weights and Measures to be elected by the General Assembly, and a deputy if necessary. The Council of each city of 2,000 or more inhabitants shall appoint a maker who shall keep on hand a complete set of weights and measures, examined and accurately tested, to serve as the city standards. The appointment of county sealers is left to the discretion of the supervisors. The county sealers will be paid by the county, and no fees for services rendered can be charged. The public standard weights and measures are to be tested at least twice a year to keep them accurate.

These sealers, who are called inspectors in other States, are given authority to stop any peddler, milk dealer, etc., and to enter any establishment or store or other place without warrants any standard or more accurate purpose of testing the weights and measures.

Richmond Will Build a Master Designers' Car

THE KLINE KAR WILL BE BUILT IN RICHMOND

A factory with everything needed to build the most advanced motor car of to-day will be erected—as shown in the cut at the bottom of this advertisement.

The object of this advertisement is not to ask you to buy an automobile through a source of civic pride—merely because the car is made in Virginia.

Unless the car gives you the utmost in style, comfort and SERVICE you should not buy it. But we do ask you who are contemplating buying a motor car to look the Kline over—examine it in every detail—give it the severest criticism.

We know that no better materials can be bought to go in any car at any price than we use in making the Kline Car.

We do know that it is made by men who are conscientiously devoting their lives to building of motor cars, and that they are intelligent workmen.

We do know that Jimmy Kline is one of the recognized masters of the business. We do know that every bolt, every piece of steel, every foot of timber, every foot of leather, yard of cloth, ounce of paint and varnish are bought with utmost care and given the most exacting test. We know everything that goes into the car is good. If there is any better material to be had we do not know it.

Higher priced cars are no better built. Kline Car will carry the name of Richmond on the highest type of skilled product to all parts of the world.

It will become the most popular car in Richmond on merits alone. We make no other claim for your consideration. You can ask owners of it here and see the car itself at Foster's.

We make Roadsters, Meteors and Touring Cars. Toy Tonneau five-passenger and six-passenger bodies; four-cylinder and six-cylinder motors.

DEMAND

We sold every car we made in 1911. We will do the same in 1912.

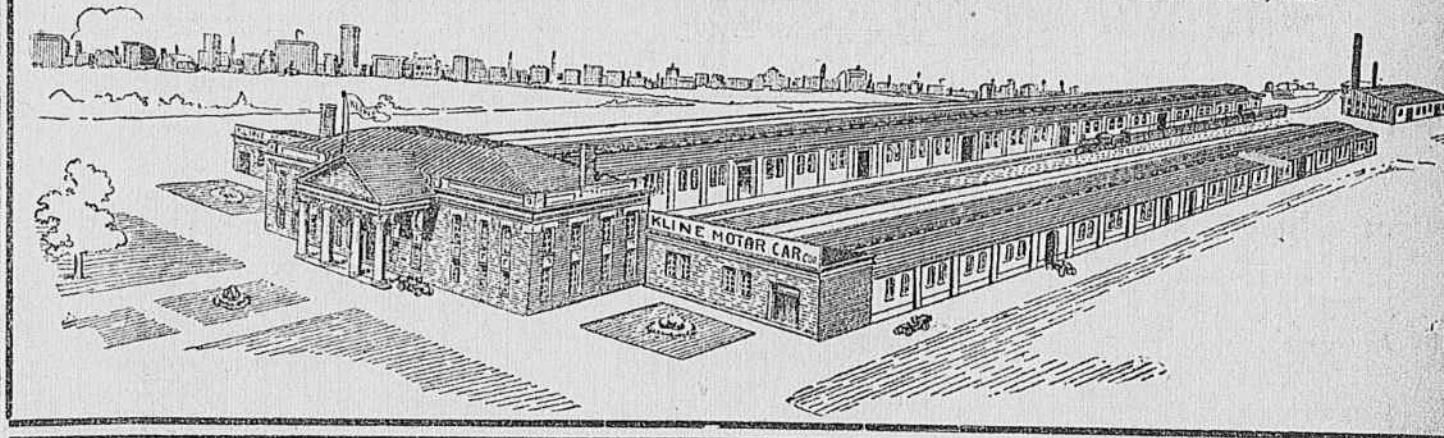

If you are thinking of a car we invite your immediate consideration. Catalogues sent for the asking.

Correspondence with responsible dealers in unoccupied territory is invited.

placed in a padded cell in the hospital ward. Although he gave the name of Williams, this is not believed to be correct, and the hospital authorities have been attempting to have him identified.

After being photographed he was removed from the hospital to the jail by Detective Sergeant Kellam. It was necessary to use a straitjacket to restrain him.

That he was delirious was apparent from the first, but whether it was caused by the fall from the train is not known.
